INTERNSHIP UPDATE FROM RACHEL ZIMMERMAN

I have officially surpassed the halfway point of my internship with CRI. I have spent these past five weeks learning about CRI as well as their values and convictions, forming a deeper understanding of poverty today, and serving in the capacity as a nutrition programs intern. As a nutrition intern, I assist the Tessa Grace Nutrition programs serving undernourished babies and their mothers in three different countries. I recently wrote a grant for a new Tessa Grace nutrition program to be started in Mozambique. It was a huge undertaking but if awarded to CRI, it could mean an entire year of funding for this program! As you may remember, I have a trip coming up. But there has been a change of plans. Malawi has closed their borders due to a resurgence in COVID-19 cases. Fortunately, our team has been very flexible and are transitioning to visit the Vida Victoriosa Project in Mexico from July 14-19. Though this change was unexpected, I am excited to see how the Lord will work through our obedience to serve Him. Thank you deeply for your support. This experience has caused me to grow personally and professionally in tremendous ways already. Please continue to pray for our team and the people we will meet.
